THE WALL THAT HEALS

After church a couple of Sundays ago, my husband and I visited THE WALL THAT HEALS. It is a half-scale replica of the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial in Washington, D.C. There was also a mobile education center which was very informative.

It was cold, blustery and rainy day, but there was quite a good crowd.

Visiting this exhibit, and seeing all those names on the wall was a stark reminder of the terrible costs of war.

I would highly recommend this exhibit if you ever get the chance.

Molli & Maddyn's Memo

Both Maddyn and Molli love to dress up and pretend. Don't all kids?

Here Maddyn is dressed up as a superhero. We call her Super Maddyn.

We can't wait until Nana and Papa come for Father's Day so we can play dress up with them.

Update our "kids" Home - Part 2

Teddi & John Lynch wanted to update the home where they raised their kids, now that they are all out of the home.

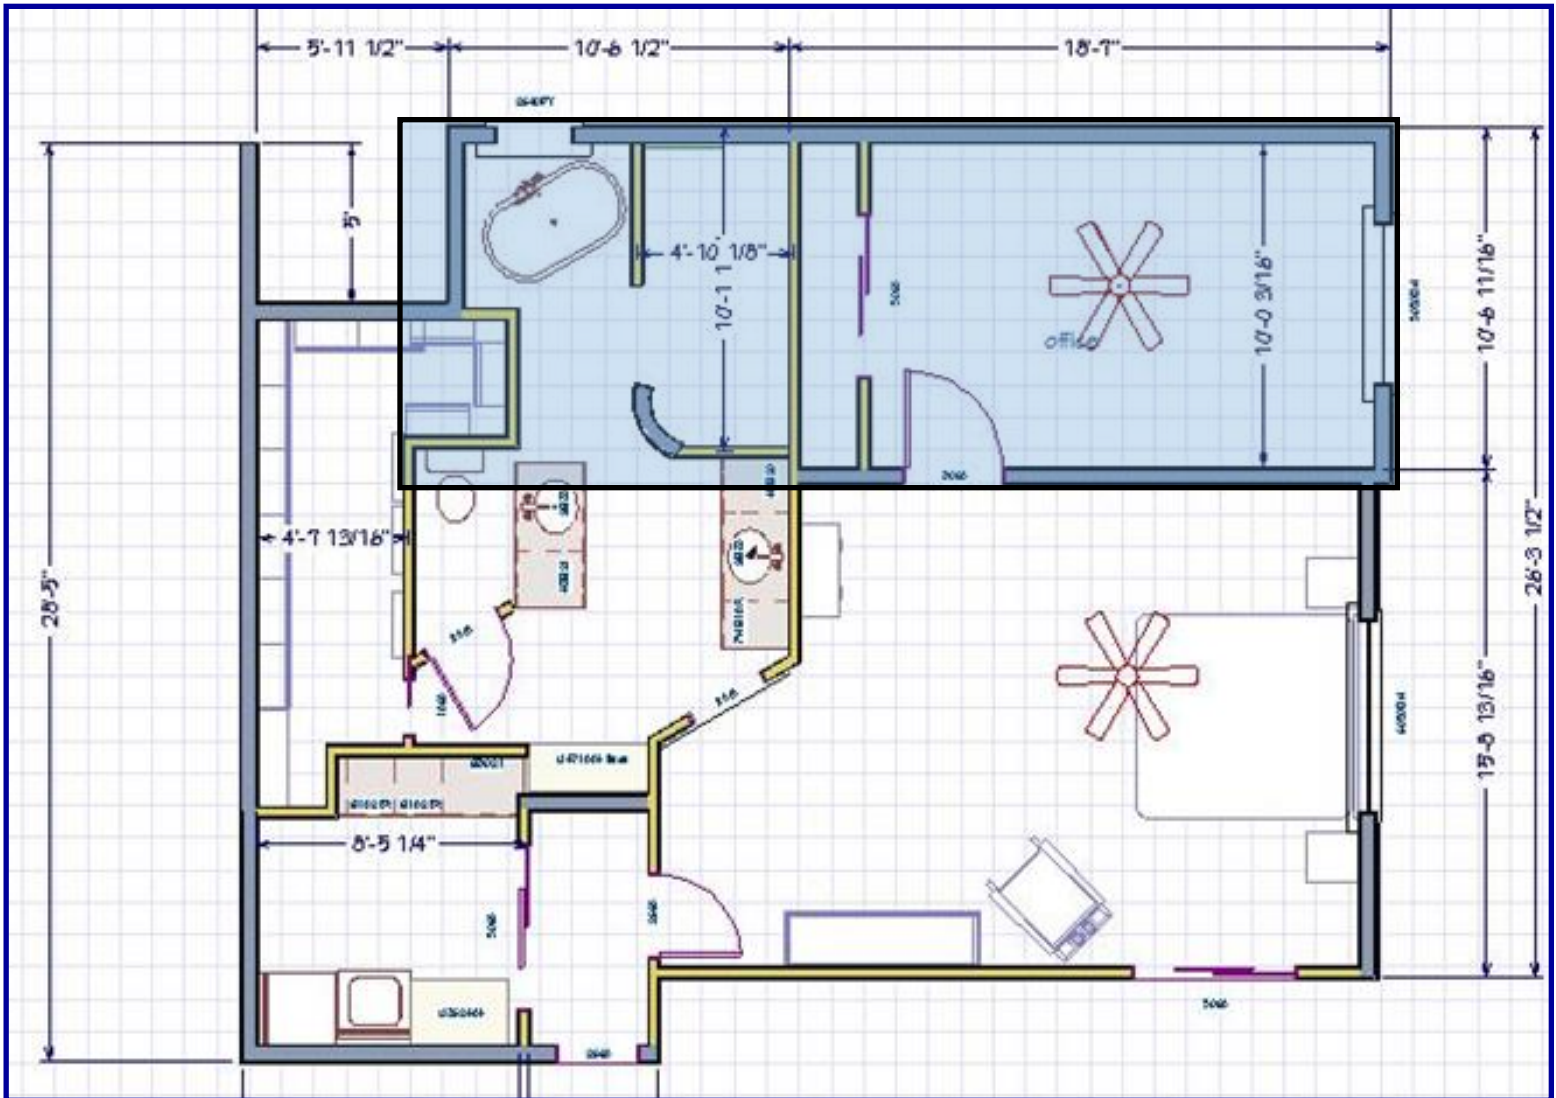

They had dreaming of doing this update for over a decade. They had talked to many contractors and designers, but never felt comfortable with any of them...until they stumbled upon Interior Expressions.

Expand & Update

We added 350 sq. ft. to their house to allow for a spa-like Master Bath which would allow for a free-standing tub, expanded shower, and an additional vanity.

The shaded area on the new floor plan below designates that addition.

The added sq. ft. also allowed for the addition of a new den/office off the Master Bedroom.

Spa-like Master Bath

They now each have their own vanity, and Teddi has her soaking tub.

We replaced the glass block window with a film coated glass window. This lets in more natural light, yet maintains privacy.

The shower was tiled floor to ceiling, including the ceiling, so the shower could be used almost as a steam shower. The piece of glass above the door can flip up to vent the steam.

Note the tower on the right-hand vanity. This provides additional storage and a convenient place to “hide” frequently used items.

BEFORE

The Journey

For many years John and I discussed, planned and dreamed about remodeling our home. John’s vision even included an addition to accommodate a spa-like master bath for me.

We looked at finishes and ideas on our own, but never seemed to connect with builders or designers with whom we spoke. This process went on for a good decade, to the point that I was beginning to think we were just doing it to amuse ourselves.

Then we just happened into Interior Expressions one Saturday about a year ago. We met Betty Jones and ended up spending 2 1/2 hours in their store. That was the beginning of making our dreams come true. This has been one of the most enjoyable experiences of our lives. Stressful as any big project can be, Betty and her amazing team managed to relieve my stress and produced a beautiful result. Thank-you Betty, Sara, Kristi, Lloyd

We added an ample linen closet at the entrance to the Master Bath

Improved Laundry

We took 28" out of the Master Bath and increased the size of the laundry.

We reused the old Master Bath cabinets by painting them a high-gloss and raised them to 36" so they are more user-friendly.

Having a sink in the laundry and space to fold clothes was high on their wish list. Mission accomplished.

The luxury vinyl tile (LVT) flooring in laundry is waterproof.
